

PATHWAYS IN ANTHROPOLOGY

Business & Economy

Explore finance and markets in a global context

For those with interests in business, finance, and the economy, anthropology increases understanding of other cultures in ways helpful for international transactions and negotiations, and supplies an incisive analysis of the corporate world and economic systems. Anthropology is a deeply collaborative form of knowledge, hence this pathway offers opportunities to interact with professionals and appreciate them as thoughtful actors in a globalizing and interconnecting world.

One route along the Business & Economy Pathway
to the Anthropology Major

- Sociocultural requirement:
Anthr 1400 Comparison of Cultures OR
Anthr 2440 Anthropology of Money
- Archaeological requirement:
Anthr 1200 Ancient Peoples and Places
- Biological requirement:
Anthr 1300 Human Evolution
- Anthr 3000 Intro to Anthropological Theory
- Two of the following:
Anthr 3026 Inequality and the Global Economy;
Anthr 3406 Gifts and Exchange;
Anthr 3426 Economic Anthropology:
- Anthr 4419 Anthropology of Corporation
- Anthr 4444 God(s) and the Market
- 8 credits of electives that could include the remaining courses above and/or:
Anthr 2472 Engaging Other Cultures
Anthr 4437 Development, Humanitarianism, and the Will to Improve;

For more information on Pathways in Anthropology, go to:
<http://anthropology.cornell.edu/pathways>